What Is Emergency Pest Control?

Emergency pest control generally refers to pest-control assistance needed because a pest problem is urgent, disruptive, rapidly increasing, or potentially damaging to the property.

Common situations may include:

- A sudden cockroach infestation
- Mice or rats inside a home
- A significant increase in ants or spiders
- Suspected termite activity
- Pest activity that is interfering with a business
- Repeated pest sightings that have not stopped
- A pest problem that requires prompt assessment

The appropriate response depends on the type of pest and the circumstances at the property.

📞 Call (888) 217-8873 if you need to discuss an urgent pest-control problem.

What Pests May Require Urgent Pest Control?

Emergency or urgent pest-control requests can involve many different pests, including:

- Ants
- Spiders
- Cockroaches
- House crickets
- Mice
- Rats
- Earwigs
- Silverfish
- Clothes moths
- Centipedes

- Millipedes
- Termites

Not every pest sighting requires emergency treatment. A professional can help determine whether the situation requires immediate service or a standard appointment.

Emergency Cockroach Control

Cockroaches can hide in kitchens, cabinets, appliances, plumbing areas, wall voids, and other protected locations.

If you're suddenly seeing multiple cockroaches or finding evidence such as droppings, egg cases, or shed skins, the problem may involve more than the insects you can see.

Emergency Rodent Control

Mice and rats can enter homes through gaps around foundations, doors, pipes, vents, roofs, and other openings.

Signs of rodent activity may include:

- Droppings
- Gnaw marks
- Scratching sounds
- Nesting material
- Damaged food packaging
- Rodent odors

If you find rodents inside your property, avoid direct contact and consider professional assessment.

- Mud tubes
- Discarded wings
- Swarming termites
- Damaged wood
- Hollow-sounding wood
- Visible termite activity

A professional termite inspection can help determine whether termites are present and what treatment options may be appropriate.

- Severity of the problem
- Service area
- Technician availability

Some pest-control companies offer after-hours or 24-hour services, while others operate during standard business hours.

What Should I Do Before Emergency Pest Control Arrives?

While waiting for professional assistance:

1. Keep children and pets away from areas with active pest activity.
2. Avoid touching unknown insects or rodents.
3. Do not disturb nests or suspected termite areas.
4. Remove accessible food sources where appropriate.
5. Take photographs of the pest or damage if it is safe to do so.
6. Note where and when you noticed the activity.
7. Tell the pest-control provider about any DIY products you've already used.

This information can help the technician understand the situation.
